"An exceptional novel with an original perspective on memory and trauma" (Foreword Reviews), Sun Don't Shine tells the story of sixteen-year-old Reece. Abducted by her father as a child, the rules Reece must live by have always been clear — stay under the radar and don't let anybody get too close. But when Reece meets her first real friend, a boy named Shawn, she begins to look back on all she's been through. And once she starts questioning the things once held sacred, life can never be the same. Can Reece gain the freedom she yearns for?

Crissa-Jean Chappell is the award-winning author of five young adult novels and a professor of creative writing at Lehman College
