Leah Hirschorn

Saturday,
April 27th
1-3pm

Ever since Leah Hirschorn took a children's literature class in college, she has dreamed of writing her own children's book. That dream came true in early 2023 when her first book, Learn

Something, was published. Learn Something is a catchy story about twins who start kindergarten and all the things they learn their first week. Repetitive language and pictures make "reading" easy for non and early readers. Inspiration for the story came from her own experiences as a child growing up and the loving relationship with her dad. As an educator, Leah loves sharing the message with children of all ages that it's important to always be learning.
